BIOSECURITY GUIDELINES WHEN ATTENDING BIRD SHOWS

Before the Show

You must be a registered bird keeper to exhibit at this show.

Before setting off check that your birds are in good health and fit to travel to the show.

Ensure that your show cages, boxes and other equipment are free from any bird contaminants, or you will not be admitted to the show.

During the Show

When entering the show hall unload your birds at a location where they can be inspected prior to being benched with other birds.

If your birds are found to be unwell or their cages unclean, you will be asked to remove them from the show, and they may be subject to a veterinary examination and referral to APHA.

After the Show

Check that your birds are still in good health and fit to travel before leaving the show.

Check that your travel boxes/bags are free of any contaminants before leaving.

On returning home isolate your birds from other birds at home and monitor their health for a week before re-introducing them.

Clean and disinfect your show cages, boxes and equipment as soon as possible after arrival home and certainly before they are used again.

Exhibitor Declaration

I understand that in line with GDPR the LCA will securely store my name, address and contact details, but not share this data with any other party.

I am a registered bird keeper. My CPH number is:.....

I have read and will follow recommended biosecurity advice outlined above. The birds I am entering are my absolute property and have been in my possession for a minimum of 30 days and are entered at my own risk.

My birds do not originate from premises or areas which are under restrictions related to confirmation of a notifiable disease.

I undertake to withdraw my birds if they show signs of illness, or my premises lie within a bird flu disease control zone, at the time of the show.

I confirm that my stud is free of disease at the time of entry and benching.

I agree to abide by the show rules and regulations.

Signed.....Date.....

Please note that failure to provide a CPH number will result in your entry to the National being rejected.
